“Try a Trade” on October 26

Making career choices can be challenging in every stage of a person’s life: What is of interest? What skills, training and education is required? Where is it most likely to find employment?

To get some of these questions answered, the North West College and North West Career Development Partnership are hosting a “Try-a-Trade” tradeshow on October 26, from 9 am to 3 pm at the NationsWest Field House.

The City of North Battleford will be one of the local employers that will be available to talk about career opportunities. With the many different facilities and infrastructure that a municipality is required to operate and maintain, well-educated and trained personnel is always needed. Heavy Equipment Operators, (Waste) Water Treatment Plant Operators, and Mechanics are only a few of the trades that can lead to employment with the City. Current job opportunities are always posted on the City’s website and on saskjobs.ca.

Another option to “try a trade” is to apply for one of the seasonal or summer jobs that are offered at the various departments in the City. Opportunities are usually posted early in the new year.

Currently over 200 employees are working at the City of North Battleford – this number increases to over 250 employees in the busy summer months due to the many seasonal workers and summer students that are being hired. Working for the City of North Battleford means working in a friendly and social environment and having training and personal development opportunities as well as competitive compensation provided. It also means to be an ambassador for the community and directly contributing to the well-being and improvement of the community on a daily basis.

The “Try a Trade” tradeshow on October 26 is a wonderful opportunity to find out more about the diverse employment opportunities that are available at the City of North Battleford.

For more information:

Susanne Abe, Communication Coordinator, 306-445-1710